

DECLARE IT ILLEGAL TO IMPORT ABSINTHE

PURE FOOD BOARD MAKES IMPORTANT DECISION TODAY REGARDING FRENCH BEVERAGE.

DANGEROUS TO HEALTH

Is the Ground for Its Importation Not Allowed to Be Sold in Country Where It is Made.

Washington, Dec. 14.—Declaring absinthe dangerous to health the pure food board of the department of agriculture today decided that its importation into the United States should be prohibited after Jan. 1st, next. The order allows the signature of the secretary before becoming effective.

Dangerous to Health.

"It is well recognized in all countries that have experienced the ravages of this disease that the use of the beverage known as absinthe is dangerous to health."

"A long and careful investigation was made by the bureau of chemistry before the absolute action taken by the food and drug inspection board was reached."

Willey's Opinion.

Dr. Willey, head of the board, expressed the opinion that "absinthe is one of the worst enemies of man and if we can keep the people of the United States from becoming slaves to this demon we will do well."

Under the food and drug act the importation is forbidden of any food or drug, if a kind forbidden entry into or forbidden to be sold or restricted in sale in the country in which it is made or from which it is imported. Under this authority the board acted.

OVER FORTY MOROS KILLED IN BATTLE

American Scouts Defeat Outlaws With Great Slaughter—No Casualties Among Victims.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Lanang, Mindanao, Philippines, Dec. 14.—Forty-two Moro outlaws were killed here today in an engagement with a detachment of American scouts. There were no fatalities on the American side. "The battle occurred" in connection with a campaign for suppressing the banditism of the entire Moro population of Mindanao and was ordered by the American military authorities. Three months ago following a number of murderous attacks on Americans, since that time the troops have been actively engaged in carrying out the order. Most of the chiefs gave up their weapons peacefully but there has been a series of force engagements with bandits. The campaign among the Americans have been few.

HUGH S. KNOX TAKES BRIDE IN NEW YORK

Son of Secretary of State Was Married This Afternoon to Miss Catherine McCook.

New York, Dec. 14.—The wedding of Miss Catherine McCook, daughter of Mrs. K. M. McCook, and Hugh S. Knox, son of the Secretary of State, took place this afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents in West Fifty-fourth street. Except for the limited number of people present, the surroundings of the wedding were on a splendid scale. The apartment was luxuriously decorated. A reception for relatives and intimate friends followed the ceremony. After a two weeks' wedding trip Mr. Knox will take his bride to Washington to live.

The bride is the only daughter of Gen. McCook, who became of the family of "Fighting McCook." She made her debut in society three years ago. This is the second time with the name Knox. The bride is the daughter of Mr. McCook, Secretary of Knox's father, Mr. J. H. Wood Knox, married Miss Elizabeth McCook of Pittsburgh in 1907. His bride was the granddaughter of a Commander Frederick S. McCook, a brother of Gen. Arvon C. McCook.

ASK MORE AID FOR BLACK RIVER FALLS

State Relief Committee Plan An Appeal to Men of Wealth in Larger Cities.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 14.—The state relief committee, appointed by Governor McLaughlin to work for the rehabilitation of the city of Black River Falls, has decided to send personal letters to persons of means in larger cities, including Chicago, St. Paul and Minneapolis, as well as to many in this state, asking for contributions to place the city "on its feet." Nothing short of $50,000 or $60,000 will, it is said, avail to relieve the business depression due to the general destruction. In no case, the committee deems, will any of the money be used to establish merchants in business. The rebuilding of the dam alone will require a large sum.

Triangular College Debate.

Williamsport, Mass., Dec. 14.—An important debate tomorrow night of the annual debate between the teams representing Amherst, Wesleyan and Williams colleges. The election of United States senators by direct vote of the people will form the subject of debate.

INVESTIGATION HAS BEEN STARTED WITH A GENERAL PROBING

What the McNamara Did and Who Were Behind Them, Being Sought For by Capsule Investigators.

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 14.—After weeks of preliminary work by government agents in many parts of the country where explosions have taken place, the federal grand jury was ready to begin here today its investigation of an alleged nation wide conspiracy by which more than one hundred structures were to be blown up, and in which dynamite, nitroglycerin and other explosives were carried into at least seventeen states.

A detailed list of one hundred explosions in structures erected by employers of non-union workmen, was furnished to the government by the National Erectors' Association, was prepared for the grand jury. The list began with the creation of structures in Massachusetts and Connecticut in the summer of 1905, and points out as indirect participation by others than James H. McNamara, John J. McNamara and Orville McNamara, that crimes of this nature were perpetrated in seventeen states.

Explosions began two years prior to the employment by McNamara of McNamara, who, according to his confession, blew up his first building in Detroit in June 1907, with twenty sticks of dynamite, and they extend into the present year several months after the arrest of the McNamaras. There were two explosions in 1907, eight in 1908, six in 1907, twenty-six in 1908, twenty in 1909, twenty-five in 1910, and thirteen in 1911.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Los Angeles, Dec. 14.—Following a trail which leads up the Los Angeles coast from San Francisco, the federal grand jury in session here, continued its probe today into the habits and expenditures of James H. McNamara, the dynamite of the Los Angeles Times building.

In this effort the telegraph operator of the San Francisco hotel where McNamara lived, was among the witnesses subpoenaed to appear today.

Who in a position to know with whom McNamara communicated in San Francisco, and, perhaps, the person with whom he made arrangements to come to Los Angeles.

REQUEST SHOPPERS TO BUY EARLY AND AID LAW'S PURPOSE

State Industrial Commission in Statement Asking for Consideration on Part of Christmas Shoppers.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 14.—In an effort to enforce the ten-hour law for women, the industrial commission of Wisconsin has issued a special appeal for early Christmas shopping, suggesting that buyers "cut" those merchants who do not live up to the law. The commission says:

Aid of Shoppers.

"The industrial commission of Wisconsin currently requests all holiday shoppers to help employers, employees and the commission in carrying out the ten-hour law for women wage-earners and the child labor law. The law limits the hours of women to ten each day and fifty-five each week, and forty-eight each week if they work at night. Children between 14 and 16 are permitted to work eight hours a day if they have a permit. Children under 14 are prohibited from working."

"Shoppers will find lists of women and children employees posted in each establishment; with the hours of beginning and stopping work, and these lists should be looked for, as failure to post them is a violation of law. These hours should be carefully observed, and shoppers should thus their visits as early as possible, is important act."

"The law protecting women and children workers are among the most important on the statute books. The women's ten-hour law of Oregon, which is similar to that of Wisconsin, has been sustained by the supreme court of that state in one of the great opinions of that court. The court based its opinion on abundant testimony of the medical fraternity that continuance for a long time on her feet at work, repeating this from day to day, tends to injurious effects on the body, and as healthy mothers are essential to vigorous offspring, the physical well-being of woman becomes an object of public interest and care in order to preserve the strength and vigor of the race."

The eagerly welcomed.

"The law in Wisconsin has been eagerly welcomed by thousands of women workers, and is being enthusiastically observed by the best employers. Any employer who does not observe it is not only injuring his own employees, but is competing unfairly with other employers who are law-abiding and public spirited."

"Christmas shoppers, above all others, should not throw their patronage to merchants who violate this law and thereby punish those who try to live up to it. Remember that it is just as easy for customers to be considerate of the women and children who serve them as it is selfish to impose on their health and comfort. Shop early in the month, early in the week and early in the day."

MEMBERS OF ROYAL PARTY ARE LANDED FROM LINER DELHI

Ten Passengers and Members of Crew Remain, However, as Life Boats Cannot Reach the Place.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Gibraltar, Spain, Dec. 14.—All of the members of the royal party comprising the Princess Royal, the Duke of Fife, and their two daughters, who suffered such terrible experiences during their landing from the wreck of the Delhi off Cape Spartar are reported to be well this morning although much exhausted.

Ten of the male passengers are still on board the Delhi. They and the crew will, it is expected be landed in the course of the day by means of the racket apparatus. It is impossible for life saving boats to approach the wreck owing to the turbulence of the sea.

The stern of the liner has shifted further ashore and the vessel is badly stranded and taking a considerable amount of water.

REFUTE OPPOSITION TO STATE ROAD LAW

Reported Opposition of County Boards of Western Counties Officially Denied.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 14.—The state highway commission has received official reports refuting the recent state of opposition to the new state highway law on the part of the boards of supervisors of several counties in western Wisconsin. It had been reported that the boards would refuse to comply. The counties were La Crosse, Monroe, and Trempealeau.

The reports to the commission show that the La Crosse county not only met the town appropriations equally, but also appropriated $2,450 to make up the state's share of one-third of the cost of construction—something the other counties in the state have done. The sentiment for good roads is declared to be as favorable as in any county in the state.

While the Monroe county board passed a resolution condemning the law, the board approved of the county's share of the cost of work in laying out a system of highways, and elected a county highway commissioner.

Vernon county took the same action except that no resolution adverse to the law was passed. The county complied fully with the law.

Trempealeau also complied with every provision and also increased the salary of the county highway commissioner from about $200 to $300.

In general, affairs in all of these counties are in good shape and the commission says there is a disposition to give the law a fair trial.

KILLED YOUNG MAN WHO INSULTED WIFE

Tragedy in Ashland Follows Blow Struck by Angry Husband Late Last Night.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Ashland, Wis., Dec. 14.—Charming his wife had been insulted by Thomas Prues, Alvin Davis, of Rhineland, knocked Prues down twice last night, fracturing his skull. He died six hours later.

Prues was formerly a trainer of Kid Lawton, a prize fighter, and formerly lived at Bay City and Milwaukee.

He arrived at Ashland last night and left his wife at a hotel while he went in to consult about a room. She was accosted by Prues and the tragedy followed.

ATROCIOUS MURDER OF ENTIRE FAMILY AT NEW YORK CITY

Widow Woman and Two Grown Daughters and Son Residing Near Albany, Killed in Horrible Manner.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 14.—An entire family, Mrs. Mary A. Morner, a widow her daughters, Edith aged 20, and Blanche, aged 17, and a son, Arthur, aged 28 years, were murdered Tuesday on the Morner farm about five miles from Albany.

Bodies Discovered.

The bodies of the three women were discovered last night near a barn where they had been locked with a hatchet and battered with a stick and thrown into a manure pile.

A searching party this morning found the body of the son with a wound in the head and otherwise mutilated under the barn floor, the boards of which had been ripped up and replaced after the murderer had secured his victims.

Search for Italian.

The police are searching for an Italian farm hand who had been employed by them since last September. Little is known concerning him.

The tragedy was not discovered for more than 24 hours after it occurred when a neighbor remarked the failure of Arthur to bring to him, according to daily custom, milk for shipment to market.

ANTI-SUFFRAGETTES VISIT ASQUITH FOR CONSOLATION PARTY

British Premier Agrees With Them That It Would Be a Disastrous Political Mistake to Grant Women Ballot.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Eng., Dec. 14.—The anti-suffragettes have been refused to action by the recent violent demonstration of the suffragettes. An important deputation of the national anti-woman's suffrage society under the leadership of Lord Curzon of Kedleston, was received by premier Asquith at his official residence this morning.

Mr. Asquith expressed his hearty sympathy with the object of the deputation and agreed with them that to grant the franchise to women "would be a political mistake of a very disastrous kind." The premier said he did not reject the suggestion that a referendum should be held on subject of woman's franchise, but he feared the verdict of such a referendum would not be accepted by suffragettes unless women were permitted to vote in the referendum.

WOOL GROWERS WILL DEMAND PROTECTION FOR THE INDUSTRY

Declare That They Have Lost Money in Last Few Years—Manufacturers Attitude Blamed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 14.—Fifteen hundred men who are as familiar with the names of Cotswolds, Hampshire, Angoras, Ramboulllets and other varieties of sheep and goats as they are with their A, B, C's gathered in Omaha today for the opening of the forty-eighth annual convention of the National Wool Growers' Association. In the size and representative character of the attendance the convention has never been eclipsed in the history of the association, which is one of the oldest live stock organizations in America. While the majority of the delegates come from the West there are many in attendance from Ohio, Kentucky and other wool growing states east of the Mississippi river.

The flockmasters believe that the wool growing industry in the United States has reached a critical stage of its existence and they have come to the convention prepared for exhaustive discussion and vigorous action.

Schedule "K" and the report of the tariff board will be the leading subjects of consideration. A vast array of statistics will be offered to show that the sheepman are not responsible for the present high prices of clothing and other wool products. On the contrary, it is declared that they have not been making any money for several years. For the past year, it is stated, the wool men have actually lost money, because the manufacturers, as a result of the tariff agitation, would not buy except on a free trade basis.

The convention will demand that the American wool growers be given that degree of protection which is represented in the difference in the cost of producing a pound of wool in the United States and in foreign countries. The association believes that the importance of the industry justifies its protection at the hands of Congress. Attention is called to the fact that nineteen per cent of the people of Wyoming are dependent on the wool growing industry. In Missouri there are 54,000 wool growers, 42,000 in Iowa and large numbers in numerous other states.

The three days of the convention will be notable for the prominence of many of the speakers as well as the importance of the subjects discussed. Senator Borah of Idaho is scheduled for an address on conservation. J. J. Huxabarger of Spencer, Iowa will speak on "Schedule K and its Relation to the Wool Growers." Other speakers and their topics will include the following: "Wool Growing and the Tariff," Senator Joseph M. Dixon of Montana; "Breeding of American Plants and Men," W. M. Hayes, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture; "Consumers vs. Producers," Congressman A. M. Buckner of Colorado; "Wool Growing in South America," Joseph E. Wing, of the national tariff board; "Importance of Sheep to the Farmer," A. J. Knollin of Chicago; "Tariff on Meats," Judge S. E. Cowan of Fort Worth; "Wool Growers and Their Neighbors," Dr. J. K. Wilson, Douglas, Wyo.

The officers in charge of the convention are: President, F. B. Gooding, former governor of Idaho; Vice-president, George Austin, Salt Lake City; Eastern Vice-president, A. J. Knollin, Chicago; Treasurer, Frank H. Miracle, Helena, Mont.; and secretary, S. W. McClure, Gooding, Idaho.

BUSINESS BROUGHT UP IN CONGRESS TODAY

Opponents of Parcels Post Have Hearings—President Taft Submits Maine Board Reports.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Dec. 14.—The senate was in session at 2 p. m. The Lorimer election inquiry is now nearing an end. Louis D. Brandeis of Boston, discussing trust legislation before the interstate commerce commission, urged the competitive system. The final hearings before the employees' railway rate counsel urging the inclusion of all interstate business in the act. Opponents of the parcels post appeared before the post office committee.

Senator Works of California asked for an investigation of soldiers' homes and urged federal care of Confederate veterans. President Taft, in a message, submitted the Maine board reports.

A bill requiring two wireless operators on steamers was introduced by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska. The Lorimer election inquiry struck from record Maxwell Edgar's testimony that C. S. Darrow was concerned in the attempt at bribery.

The monetary commission held a conference on state bank examination. The parcels bill enlarging federal aid for agricultural instruction was ordered. Senator Cullerton of Texas called up his resolution to abrogate the Russian treaty.

In the House, the public building committee decided to frame the omnibus building bill against the democratic leadership's opposition. They met at noon and miscellaneous bills were considered. The steel-rolling tariff agreement, with the Southern railway will be proved by the investigation committee. The New York cotton speculators were attacked in a speech by Rep. Hollin of Alabama. The bill extending the eight hour law to all government contract work was debated.

WALDRON IN COURT; NERVES SHATTERED

MISSING JUROR IN HYDE CASE RETURNS IN SAD MENTAL STATE—LONGED FOR FRESH AIR.

BLOCKS SECOND TRIAL

Judge, Porterfield Announced He Would Dismiss Entire Jury on Ground of Waldron's Mental Incompetency.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 14.—Pale and emaciated and weak from hunger and exposure, Henry Waldron, the juror whose escape last Sunday night blocked the progress of the second trial of Dr. H. Clark Hyde, charged with the murder of Col. Swope, returned to his home today.

To Dismiss Jury.

Hyde was brought into court by Mrs. Waldron and after a conference with him Judge Porterfield announced he would dismiss the entire jury on the ground of Waldron's mental incompetency.

His eyes, shifting at every movement, betraying shattered nerves, Waldron described to Judge Porterfield four days of wandering through the country in search of "fresh air and freedom from confining walls and staring eyes."

Couldn't Stand Being Cooped Up.

He denied having glimpsed the trial with any person. His narrative to the judge was told in the presence of his weeping wife, and all but brought tears to the eyes of his inquisitors.

"I had been driven almost distracted, Judge, before I got my foot on the ground and not to the country; but I don't think I'm crazy."

"I couldn't stand being cooped up. I felt imprisoned. There seemed to be nothing but walls and eyes around me—I longed for fresh air."

MUST LABEL OILS; PENALTY IS SEVERE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., Dec. 14.—Liability to a manslaughter charge if death results from consumption of oil not labeled in accordance with law is having the effect of a general compliance with the Wisconsin oil and gasoline inspection law, according to Louis P. Meyer, state supervisor of inspectors of illuminating oils. Mr. Meyer has returned from an extensive inspection trip comparative few communities where the work of the department has not been effective on the side of safety.

He has published a compilation of the laws for distribution among all dealers in oils, with the purpose of "flowing the law of life, limb and property resulting from the careless handling and selling of gasoline, benzine, kerosene and like products of petroleum."

Special attention is called to the law requiring that gasoline, benzine, or kerosene must be delivered in a can painted red, with the proper label painted thereon. Such a label must also be attached to all packages of products containing gasoline, etc., such as liquid stove blacking.

Fifty-four deputy oil inspectors are scattered throughout the state and are instructed to prosecute for all violations.

CHARLES L. WARRINER PLEADS FOR PARDON

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Columbus, O., Dec. 14.—The State Pardon Board at its meeting tomorrow is expected to consider and act upon an application for the parole of Charles L. Warriner, who was sentenced to six years in the penitentiary following his confession to having misappropriated $443,000 of the funds of the Big Four railroad.

Warriner was for many years a local treasurer of the Big Four at Cincinnati. His arrest and trial, in which evidence was introduced to show that Warriner had given aliases "Mush," Jeannette Stewart, Fort, attracted country-wide attention. With the usual allowance of time off for good behavior Warriner would complete his sentence in three years nine months and ten days. He has now been in the penitentiary two years. During the whole of that time he has occupied one of the best clerical positions in the main office of the prison.

WORLD'S NEWS COMES BY A SPECIAL WIRE DIRECT TO GAZETTE

Associated Press Now Furnishes An Exclusive Leased Wire Service Every Day.

Telegraphic news of the world's happenings is received in the Gazette office daily over a special leased wire. This is a new innovation and means that the readers will know the latest world's happenings each day without having to wait for the morning papers to be published. It is a service which has been in operation for some time, but it is only now that it is being made known to the public.

The Associated Press is the largest news gathering syndicate in the world. It has correspondents stationed in all the large cities of the world, at large and central, or distributing offices, in certain districts to more easily relay the news to its clients.

By special arrangements with the Wisconsin Telephone company, a special leasing instrument has been placed in the editorial rooms of the Gazette and at certain fixed periods of the day, the news is read from the Associated Press office in Milwaukee to the stenographer at the Janesville end of the wire and taken down on the typewriter as fast as received.

In this way the Chicago livestock, wheat and other markets are received on special prepared blanks. On Monday afternoon the Chicago market is also secured so that the Gazette readers do not have to wait until Tuesday to learn the interesting prices. The markets now received are absolutely correct and obtained by expert men stationed on the Chicago markets for the exclusive use of the Associated Press.

In the neighborhood of three thousand words a day are secured over the telephone via the special leased wire, giving the Gazette readers the day's news even later than the copies of the Chicago and Milwaukee papers that reach the city in the afternoon, can handle it. Handling news over the telephone is an innovation in the newspaper world and has proved most successful.

ISSUES CAUTION WITH REGARD TO THIEVES

Chief of Police, Appleby, in View of Last Night's Hold-up, and Numerous Tramps, Advocates Precautions.

Chief of Police George Appleby, in view of the hold-up and robbery of Mrs. Louke last evening, and the presence of a large number of tramps and transient unemployed in the city, today issued a warning to the people of Janesville cautioning them to be very careful, as this class of men will take big chances to get a little spending money. He also advised that the business men of the city take special precaution in their stores at this time of the year. As the crowds in them are large it is quite easy for the light-fingered to snatch a customer's purse, or grab articles on display. It would be well for each store to employ a floor walker during the holidays for the protection of merchandise and their patrons.

Thirty-eight slept in the police station last night; a considerable number of whom were brought there and examined in an effort to discover the assailant of Mrs. Louke. The class of men who are spending their nights at the station now are a much poorer class of men than came earlier in the fall. Many of these were transient laborers, but the present crowd practically all refuse to work.

A short time ago, when there were about eighteen or twenty men who spent the night at the station, a tobacco grower notified the chief that he could employ as many men as he could send him. The chief notified his lodgers of the fact and how they might get to the place of employment, but not a one showed up. Chief Appleby is hazardous the opinion that some of them are criminals driven out from Chicago by the recent burst of law enforcement.

Nelson's flagship Victory, almost the last relic of the great naval wars, is to be re-rigged, repainted and as nearly as possible restored to the condition in which she gloriously led the port column of the British fleet into battle at Trafalgar.

JUST RECEIVE WORD OF FRIEND'S DEATH

Frank Smith, A Former Resident, Accidentally Killed at Hardy, Mich.

When Shot Gun Exploded.
Friends in this city have just received word of the death of Frank Smith, a former resident of this city, who was accidentally killed at his home in Hardy, Mich., December 3rd, when a shot gun which he was removing from a shelf exploded.

A telegram was sent to Mr. and Mrs. William Smith, of this city at the time of the death, but through some error it was impossible to make out who was dead and where the death occurred. A letter was received yesterday, however, telling of his sad experience.

Mr. Smith was twenty-seven years of age and had come to this country from Aberdeen, Scotland, about seven years ago. He had been employed by several farmers in the country during his stay here, living the majority of the time in the vicinity of Johnston Center. On December 13, four years ago, he was united in marriage to Jennie Webster, also of Aberdeen. In September of this year, they moved to Hardy, Mich., where they had purchased an eighty-acre farm.

Mr. Smith was a quiet and kind husband. He was an industrious man and possessed the sterling qualities of the Scottish people. He had many friends in this vicinity. The funeral was held at Hardy and interment was made in the cemetery there. He leaves a wife and two small children.

DELIGHTFUL PARTY AT ASSEMBLY HALL

Dr. and Mrs. Thorne and Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Korat Hosts at Brilliant Affair Last Evening.

Dr. and Mrs. Thorne and Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Korat entertained last evening at Assembly hall at one of the most delightful dancing parties which it has been the privilege of Janesville people to enjoy for some time. Even one who was familiar with it would hardly have recognized the hall, draped and white festoons gracefully drawn from a number of large groups of festooning, holly and Christmas holly gave it a most cheery and holiday appearance.

Musical entertainment by the local orchestra, furnished by a number of the best musicians from the surrounding towns numbering twelve in all, and their ability as dance leaders was greatly appreciated by the entire company.

At midnight supper was served to the guests in the room adjoining the hall and dancing was then continued until the final piece was played at an early hour this morning. Frappe was served from tables situated at the corners of the hall throughout the evening and the prettily decorated tables added considerably to the general appearance of the party.

When the last strains of the orchestra had ended the guests found it hard to realize that the time had passed so rapidly and they departed with a feeling of regret.

THUG FAILS TO GET HER STOCKING PURSE

Screams of Mrs. Gustave Luedke Bring Timely Assistance And Assailant Gets But Forty Cents.

The timely screams of Mrs. Gustave Luedke, who was accosted by a hold-up man on the Montrose bridge early last evening while returning home from a shopping trip to town, were all that saved her from being robbed of a large sum of money which she carried in a stocking purse, and from possible assault and even more serious consequences. As it happened she was deprived of only a hand purse and forty-one cents.

Just as she was approaching the north end of the bridge at about six-thirty o'clock the hold-up man stepped out from behind one of the large iron beams, pointed a revolver at her, and commanded her to throw up her hands. Mrs. Luedke was too frightened at the time to cry out and let him take possession of her purse and a large package of Christmas presents, worth about five dollars. But he was not satisfied with what he found and asked if she had anything else. She replied that she had not. He then declared that he was going to search her and had a good mind to kill her, and grasped her by the shoulders.

By this time, the thoroughly frightened Mrs. Luedke mustered up enough courage to cry out for assistance, which was heard by William Wallace two blocks away, and on his hurrying to her rescue the thug fled. Wallace pursued him beyond the bridge's grocery store, and then, on the hold-up man turning around and offering to use him for a target he desisted from following him farther.

As soon as the thief left, Mrs. Luedke ran back to the Rossing grocery store on Center avenue and notified the police. The patrol was promptly dispatched to the scene in charge of Officers Fanning and Champion, but before they could arrive the thief was out of sight and had made his escape.

The stolen package was picked up near the bridge at night, the robber evidently thinking it of small value and likely to identify him. It is described as being of slender build, smooth shaven, and wearing a cap.

DEATH OF RELATIVE LONG SINCE MISSING

Word Received From Quincy, Cal., of Death of John Kealy Who Has Relatives in Porter.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Edgerton, Dec. 14.—A letter from an attorney at Quincy, Cal., has just been received here by relative conveying the death of John Kealy at that place. The deceased came from Ireland when eighteen years of age and with his parents resided in the town of Porter until 1851. Departing then for the west the family became separated, for he never came home, and it was seldom that he wrote to any of the relatives.

The letter received requests the names of the surviving relatives and heirs. The deceased held interests in two mines in the west and from all information obtainable two sisters and one brother will each receive handsome sums; they are Mrs. Andrew Smith of Chicago and Mrs. John Nichols, and Peter Kealy of Porter. The parents Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Kealy, have both been dead for thirty-eight years.

Chancellor—Margaret Conn.
Chancellor—Ann Knapton.
Marshal—Della Madden.
Inner Sentinel—Gertrude McCarthy.
Outer Sentinel—Jane Hutson.
Manager—Margaret McChesney.
Physician—Dr. W. McChesney.

Edgerton News Notes.
Mrs. W. F. Learn and daughter, Miss May and Mrs. Frank Schmilling were Janesville visitors yesterday.

Beginning Monday next and continuing until after the holidays, all the stores of the city will be open evenings.

Fred Glase, after an absence of nine months in Lewistown, Mont., has arrived home and will remain over the winter.

A game of basketball is scheduled for tomorrow, Friday evening at the high school gymnasium between the Janesville high school and Edgerton high school. The game will be called at 7:45.

Berger Maurud and Miss Marie Engstrom were united in marriage at the Norwegian church parsonage on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 13, Minnervod performing the ceremony. They were attended by Leonard Maurud, brother of the groom, and Miss Anna Engstrom, sister of the bride. The couple will reside in Edgerton.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bussey are rejoicing over the arrival of a daughter in their family circle, born on Wednesday afternoon.

Harry, son of Dr. and Mrs. W. McChesney has gone to Chicago to accept a position as traveling salesman for a photo supply house.

The sad news has just been received by relatives here of the death of Charles Lord at Seattle, Wash. He was the oldest son of the late Dr. S. L. Lord the pioneer physician of Edgerton.

BAD FIRE NARROWLY AVERTED YESTERDAY

Presence of Mind of Mrs. Van Kirk Saved House From Destruction.

What might easily have been a serious conflagration was narrowly averted yesterday morning at 7:30 o'clock by the prompt action of Mrs. Isabelle Van Kirk. While lighting a taper in the sitting room a piece of the match flew off and fell on a couch cover, unnoticed by Mrs. Van Kirk, who went immediately into another part of the house. Returning in a few minutes she found the room filled with smoke and flames. Quickly catching up a rug she smothered the couch and hangings which were ablaze. Beside the couch and the curtains near it there were several pieces of furniture badly damaged, and altogether about a hundred dollars worth of damage was done.

An Admirable Trait in the French.
Now, what I like so much in France is the clear, unflinching recognition by everybody of his own luck. They all know on which side their bread is buttered and take a pleasure in showing it to others, which is surely the better part of religion. And they seem to make a poor mouth over their poverty, which I take to be the better part of manliness.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

ROBERT HOWARD IS GIVEN A JAIL TERM

Old Soldier Pleads Guilty to Theft of Trousers From Fred Hachke—Gets Twenty-five Days.

Keenly sensible of his disgrace, very much depressed in spirits, and not even pleading his drunkenness as an excuse for his conduct, Robert Howard, a grey-haired old soldier, pleaded guilty before Judge Filled this morning to the charge of stealing a pants pattern from his former employer, Fred Hachke, and was sentenced to twenty-five days in the county jail in default of a fine of $25 and costs.

Howard, who was arrested yesterday morning at Beloit, was brought up here in the afternoon by Deputy Sheriff P. J. Dulin. He could not remember the pants pattern which he admitted taking on November 30. He had been drinking heavily at the time and was sure that it was in his possession on that day and he did not give his intention as an excuse for the theft, but merely as an explanation of why he could not remember what disposal he had made of the goods, and said that if it came to his mind he would let the police know where they were.

The prisoner, who worked about eleven years ago for one of the local tailors and for short periods a couple of times since, is a former regular army soldier, having served in the Third U. S. Cavalry from 1872 to 1878. He claims to have spent most of those years in the western states and to have seen some active service in the field.

Mr. Hachke, who suffered by this theft, is also the loser by a deceptive customer of Italian nationality, who after paying nine dollars down on a twenty-dollar suit, left the city, taking the suit with him.

UNITED DOCTORS
CAUSE SENSATIONMANY DEEPLY PUZZLED OVER WONDERFUL CURE OF
KATHERINE HENSEL.

GALL STONES DISSOLVED

NON-SURGICAL METHODS OF PAINLESS, BLOODLESS TREAT-MENT INDEED A GREAT DISCOVERY.

Hardly a day passes but some unfortunate, despondent, and almost hopeless sufferer goes to the United Doctors, who have their Janesville Institute in the Hayen building, corner of Milwaukee and Main st., in search of a cure.

The modern scientific non-surgical methods of these specialists has proved superior to the old methods of treatment that it is a source of constant surprise to everyone. Katherine Hensel, of 263 So. Third St., Streator, Illinois, was treated by the United Doctors and has made the following statement for publication: "I have suffered for the last twelve years with gall stones and pain in my back, and doctored with a great many doctors but obtained no relief. I had to stay in bed days sometimes. I heard of the United Doctors, and after deliberating, decided to go to them, which I did. This was eight weeks ago and although I suffered twelve years, my pain have already left me and I feel strong and can now do my work again with only those two months' treatment."

Katherine Hensel was cured in the Illinois Institute of the United Doctors.

Anyone suffering from any ailment or disease can do no better than to immediately consult these specialists. They treat among other troubles, the diseases of the blood, nerves, kidneys, heart, liver, spine, skin, including rheumatism, epilepsy, paralysis, gall stones, sciatica, tumors, stomach troubles, neuralgia, catarrh, deafness, neuritis, and dropsy, cases of women and diseases of men.

The Janesville Institute is in the Hayen building, corner of Milwaukee and Main street.

SAN SALVADOR'S NAME LOST

Identity of Island on Which Columbus First Landed Is No Longer Certain.

San Salvador is perhaps the most interesting historical point on the American side of the world, as it is the island upon which Columbus first landed. Yet it has lost its name. In view of the history not only of the Bahamas group, but of the American continent as well, it is far from surprising that the identity of the famous island should have been long lost; or that the re-identification should have been delayed until the middle of the last century, when Captain Becher of the British navy, by application of the description, contained in Columbus' journal, to the coasts from Gomera to the Bahamas, determined clearly that Watling's Island alone met all requirements of the case.

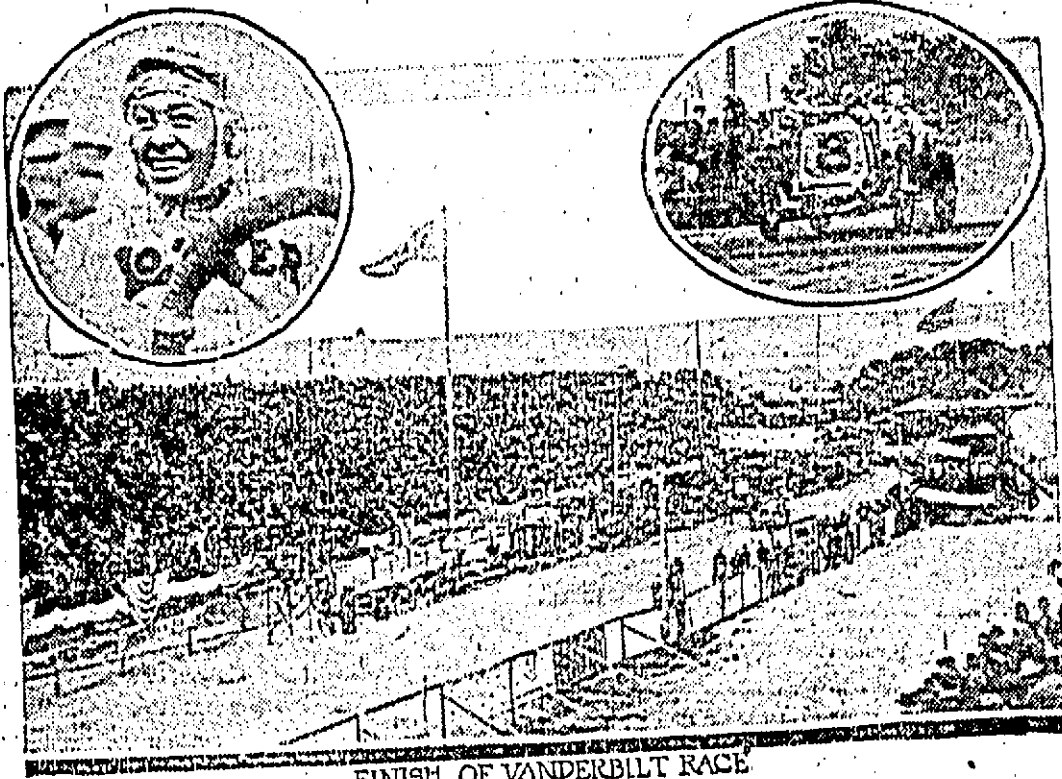

To Brighten the Eyes.

Bright eyes are among the most radiant of beauty's jewels, since they give animation and light to the entire face. A dull eye means a heavy, drooping expression, a condition to be avoided by the employment of extreme measures on the part of the girl who would attract.

A harmless and generally satisfactory way to bring brightness to the eyes is to bathe them with a solution of boracic acid and tepid water. Put in a basin full of tepid water as much boracic acid as can be placed on a dime. When it has entirely dissolved bathe the eyes gently. Do not be afraid to allow the water to get into the eye, as it will remove all inflammation and tend to make this important beauty feature clear and brilliant, at the same time giving a restful and strengthening effect.

MRS. ANNA GODFRIED

DONS MALE GARB TO SEEK WORK.

Chicago, Ill.—Mrs. Anna Godfried, 1141 East Seventeenth st., mother of four young children, driven to desperation by penury starvation and suffering consequences of her husband's illness, cut her hair short, donned her husband's clothing and left her home, bent upon obtaining work as a man on a truck farm near Rogers Park. Eight hours later the woman, food-sore, weary and nearly exhausted, from the long walk was found helpless on a bench near the bungalow of Mrs. Lillian Lang, 1436 Abdon st., Rogers Park. Mrs. Lang who had been attracted by the woman's mourning, summoned the police and Mrs. Godfried was taken to the Rogers Park station. Mrs. Lang told the police that she had heard the woman mourning for half an hour or more before she went outside and found her on the bench. She thought at first that it was a man but when she walked close Mrs. Godfried's pale face and her features betrayed her sex. She was wearing her husband's coat, vest, trousers, soft collared shirt, shoes and his cap and when Mrs. Lang took off the cap she was surprised to find that the woman had cut her hair short. Mrs. Godfried wept while telling her story at the Rogers Park station. "My husband has been ill with heart disease and has been out of work for the last four years," she said.

A Death Each Second.

The number of deaths in the world annually is 33,333,333, or 91,554 per day, 3,750 per hour, 60 per minute, or one per second. It is estimated that the population of the earth at the present time is being increased at the rate of about 16,500,000 annually.

Earth Mulch.

Many farmers do not know that a spadeful of fresh earth put about trees, bushes or vines will protect them from mice. Clear away the grass and leaves and a minute's work will suffice to protect the tree.

H. J. BLISS,
Business Mgr.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 1st day of December, 1911.

OLIVE M. HAYWARD,
(Seal) Notary Public.

My commission expires July 12, 1914.

This seems like it reasonable proposition, and it is difficult to realize how any intelligent mind can object, and yet the laws of many states are so biased that any new science in the art of healing, finds it difficult to gain admission.

The National League of Medical Freedom proposes to regulate this kind of injustice and is already making rapid strides in that direction. There is no reason why graduates with diplomas from well recognized schools should be compelled to take an examination every time they cross a state line, as is now the case in some states.

THE STATE'S EXTRAVAGANCE.

The statement made, and figures furnished to verify them, by A. E. Matheson and George G. Sutherland, at the Twilight club meeting last Tuesday night, are significant, and were doubtless read with interest last evening. Significant, because startling, and also because of the character of the men who furnished them.

Mr. Matheson and Mr. Sutherland are university men and loyal friends of their Alma Mater, but they would not stultify themselves by permitting to pass unnoticed the disgraceful policy pursued by the present management and endorsed by a weak administration.

The budget of the state school, for the next two years, called for a trifle less than $2,000,000. As one of the speakers said this was supposed to be ample, and yet when it left the legislature it carried an increase of more than a million dollars.

The question naturally arises, "How was this increase secured?" And the answer is naturally follows, "Through political manipulation." Ex-Governor Board evidently knew what he was talking about when he resigned from the Board of Regents, and Supt. Cary was well informed when he criticized the management.

But the university is only one of the rat-holes of the reform administration. A four hundred per cent increase in state expenses, during the past ten years, shows reckless extravagance and dare devil wastefulness on every hand. The state taxes in 1900 represented a per capita apportionment of $1.30, as against $1.27 in 1890. In 1910 this had jumped to $5.20.

The state now supports forty commissions and when the income tax limbers up and gets ready for business there will be more patriots on the pay roll than students in the university.

Some people flatter themselves that if the new assessment, now going on in the city, shows a substantial increase, that the percentage of taxation will be decreased, but that is a forlorn hope. At the rate expenses are climbing, taxes are bound to advance, and as the railroads and public utilities companies have been bled to the limit, the rank and file will be expected to come to the center, and we are coming in good shape.

This is reform let loose and the people who have been shouting for it are getting what is coming to them in liberal measure. One of the members of the last legislature is quoted as saying, at the opening of the session, that he proposed to vote for every appropriation on the calendar, and results show that he represented a majority.

Mr. Sutherland quoted a prominent Milwaukee attorney as saying that if the people of the state knew of the rottenness of the present administration that they would turn the rascals out by 100,000 majority.

The primary law has so completely annihilated political parties that it is a good time for the conservative taxpayers of the state to get together and protect themselves from the most reckless administration that ever cursed the state.

The people of Chicago are to be congratulated on the action of their school board in retaining Mrs. Ella Clark Young as superintendent. Mrs. Young is accomplishing great results for the schools of the city, and if time is given to consummate her plans, graduates from the grades will have something to show in the way of a practical education.

President Harrison forced himself on an unwilling party in 1892, and went down to defeat. Unless a radical change in sentiment occurs, the experience is likely to be repeated in 1912. Indifference is the worst kind of opposition, and this is the spirit which confronts President Taft today in the house of his friends. Will he be wise enough to recognize it?

Parties who are circulating petitions for the commission plan of government, meet with but little opposition. The taxpayers seem anxious for the change, and there is little doubt but that the plan will be adopted. Some fear is expressed that good men may not be elected, but that is a groundless fear. When men are elected at large for any office there is seldom cause for complaint.

Colonel Roosevelt's reception in Boston yesterday was an old-time ovation. Should he decide to swing around the circle, a continuous performance would result, for he is still an idol in the minds of the masses, and in spite of some weaknesses, is by far and away the most popular man in the country today.

Farm land at $1,200 per acre for agricultural purposes, would be considered a luxury by any investor, but the state university don't hesitate to pay the price. The public crib is very inviting, and seems to be easy of access.

A suggestion—The Daily Gazette as a Xmas present. A constant reminder of the donor every day in the year.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT
By Roy K. Moulton.

GRANDPA.
There's no one in this whole wide world who knows as much as grandpa does. I sometimes think that he must be the wisest man that ever was. He can predict the weather better than the regular weather man.

He doesn't always guess it right, but, then, no other fellow can.

He always tells us, far ahead, how all elections will come out. He's seen so many hot campaigns, he never has the slightest doubt. Of course he often makes mistakes, and very seldom catches the turn, but there are very few who can, that is so far as I can learn.

He's got a safe, sure remedy for every ail that man can find. There's no disease that he can't cure, or none that I can call to mind. Of course, sometimes, they don't get well, but that is just part of the game.

A lot of doctors that I know in this town must admit the same.

His knowledge is as free as air. He always poodles out advice. Without the form of being asked, his wisdom is beyond all price. Some fellows who have followed it have made their fortunes. Some have not.

For grandpa's human like the rest, although he's lived an awful lot.

THINGS WE HAVE NEVER SEEN.
A newspaper reporter with an automobile.

A chorus girl with a glass eye.

A matinee idol with a cork leg.

Photograph that satisfied everybody in the family.

Man who would admit his automobile was running at its best.

Baseball team that wasn't sure to win the pennant.

Self-made man, who wasn't proud of the job.

FROM THE HICKORYVILLE CLAIRION.

Miss Pansy Tibbitts has returned from a finishing school to spend the summer and she has changed so her folks hardly knew her. When she went away she was shaped like an old-fashioned deacon, the same as her mother, but when she returned she was top heavy and looked something like an umbrella.

Leon Higgins is taking a correspondence school course in law making and expects to grab off something worth while in the matrimonial market in the near future.

Uncle Ezra Jenkins bought a postage stamp at the postoffice last November intending to write to his brother out in Arizona but he never got around to it and last week he tried to sell it back to Postmaster Tibbitts, but the latter refused to buy it back because Uncle Ezra had carried it around in his pocket so long the stickum had all wore off on it.

Elmer Spinks says he is going in the gas fitting business, but I don't see how he is going to hold it still long enough.

Before a fellow's married he buys his chocolate drops and after he is married he buys her peanut crisp.

You kin always tell a married couple in a cafe, for she is always lookin' out the window and he is lookin' at some other woman.

You kin probably find here and there a lonehail player that don't chew tobacco, but they ain't been in the business very long.

AN UNSOPHISTICATED LADY.
One of last week's want ads.

LOST
A GREEN LADY'S HAND BAG.

WHAT DRIVES BOX OFFICE PEOPLE CRAZY.
"Are you sure it's going to be a good show?"
"Have you got two good seats facing the stage? Are they behind the post?"
"Do you know whether the Mr. Jones, who is with this show, is the same Mr. Jones who played in 'Way Down East' in 1905?"
"Are you sure I will not sit next to some man with a buffed brooch?"
"Do you think my husband would like the show? If so, I have a notion to have two seats laid away, and then if we don't come, you can sell them to somebody else."

"Can you hear better from the back of the house or from the side, if so why?"
"Do you think there will be a good crowd? What did the New York papers say about this show?"
"Is that lovely leading man married?"
"Say, how can I get a note back to that blond chorus girl with the pink tights?"

AN INEXORABLE MISTAKE.
Mr. Puddleford entered the living room and looked at the thing in a startled sort of way. It was a thing with four rubber tired wheels and a pair of handles to push it by.

He could not imagine why the thing should be in the house and he was perplexed, alarmed and mystified. He then looked at his wife, who was seated over near the steam radiator.

"Well, I'll be figgered," he exclaimed. "This is a fine way to break the news to me. I'll be—"

"Don't get excited," interrupted his wife quietly. "It isn't what you think it is at all. It's only a ton wagon."

FOR WARM MEMBERS ONLY.

PURCHASED ROOMS FOR GENTLEMEN WITH STEAM HEAT.

OH, WHERE ARE THEY NOW?
The old gentleman who used to carry a quill toothpick in his vest pocket.

The good, old lady who used to begin knitting Christmas wristlets and mittens about this time of year.

The long haired book agent with the pig hat and celluloid collar.

The long haired man who used to lecture on the street corner and sell a two-dollar bill and a cake of soap for 10 cents.

Heard in a Restaurant.
Gerald—"On account of their similarity in dress it's hard to tell a gentleman from a waiter." Geraldine—"But doesn't the waiter usually own his dress suit?"—Bohemian.

The village milliner who used to be acquainted with all of "the travelling gentlemen."

The old-fashioned railroad train that used to be on time.

Affection.
Affection is that spirit which prompts you to say to your guest: "Do you care for cream in your coffee?" when you know right well that it's milk you are passing, and milky thin milk at that.

The Mistral.
The mistral is a cold, northwest wind which does much damage at certain seasons in France and Italy. From the close of autumn to the beginning of spring, it is especially violent. It dries up the soil and causes dangerous storms on the Mediterranean sea.

Preserving Terraces.
If there are terraces where heavy rains cause the soil to slip off, a good and permanent remedy is to set common barberry bushes rather closely on the terrace. The roots will hold up the terrace and keep it safe from freshets. The lawn will be beautiful the year around with the shrubs.

TWO WOMEN BADLY HURT IN RUNAWAY

Mrs. Terwilliger Rendered Unconscious and May Be Internally Injured.—Mrs. Miller Badly Cut.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Clinton, Dec. 14.—While driving down Milwaukee street this afternoon at about 2:30, Mrs. Jerome Terwilliger and Mrs. A. W. Miller lost control of their horse which became frightened and was thrown out on the cement crosswalk at the corner of DuRand and Milwaukee streets. Mrs. Terwilliger was picked up in an unconscious state and by her actions would indicate that her side hurt her badly. It is not known how badly she was injured as she had not regained consciousness at a late hour this afternoon. Mrs. Miller was severely cut about the face and head but was not otherwise injured.

Buy Hopkins Block.
W. A. Mayhew was in Janesville yesterday and bought the Hopkins block of Clinton from Miss Ida Hopkins Smith of Belvidere. The transfer was made to William Mayhew and son, Wm. Mayhew, Jr. The property sits on a two-story brick building on the east side of Main street and is now occupied by the Thorne bakery and Boner's candy store, down stairs, and the Toldal company and the K. of P. lodge rooms upstairs.

THE INEVITABLE WAR.

London, England, According to an investigation carried on during the past few months it is given out as authentic that a war between Germany and England is absolutely inevitable. There have been rumors of good authority that never was the crises nearer than last September when every naval officer in the English army who was then non leave was recalled by telegram and when even the able seamen at Portsmouth were prepared for the worst. The investigation includes interviews with many of the prominent financiers and diplomats of Germany who definitely expect the war for the past years but it is stated on good authority that never was the crises nearer than last September when every naval officer in the English army who was then non leave was recalled by telegram and when even the able seamen at Portsmouth were prepared for the worst. The investigation includes interviews with many of the prominent financiers and diplomats of Germany who definitely expect the war for the past years but it is stated on good authority that never was the crises nearer than last September when every naval officer in the English army who was then non leave was recalled by telegram and when even the able seamen at Portsmouth were prepared for the worst. MILTON JUNCTION

Freshmen Entertain High School.

Milton Junction, Dec. 14.—Last night the Freshmen class of the local High School entertained the High School at a party in the laboratory.

A short program was given which was greatly appreciated. Various games and matches were also enjoyed. All had a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Carr went to Oshkosh Wednesday to attend a meeting of The Grange.

John Stikard of Madison was in town yesterday.

Mrs. Clara Hinzol went to Marshfield this morning for a short visit.

Mitigating Circumstances.
A Philadelphia man has just been arrested for hitting with his own wife.
It is only fair to the defendant to explain that the lady was heavily veiled and he doubtless supposed she was

What kind of winter weather?

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

RETIRING FROM BUSINESS.
"I shall retire from business when I am fifty years of age," said a friend of mine.

"Why?"
"Because if my plans do not fall I shall have enough money by that time, and I shall be entitled to the enjoyment of the leisure which I shall have earned."

Now—
Most likely when my friend is fifty he will postpone his retirement. He will find no place where he may be go. Or—

If he should retire at that time he will learn a lot of things.

He will find that he is like a fish out of water. He will be out of his natural element. He is so built that he is adapted to an atmosphere of activity. In that atmosphere he finds satisfaction. When he quits his sphere of activity he goes against nature.

Moreover—
One who is able to work and whose product is useful contributes to the world's output. When such a one leaves he adds to the world's waste and subtracts from the world's happiness. Instead of being an asset, he becomes a liability.

Besides—
He who quits his labors while he is yet able to do his best runs a personal risk. His machinery, physical and mental, is set to the grinding of a grind. When the hopper becomes empty the machinery is apt to wear itself out in the grinding of the parts one upon another.

When a man who has labored long has nothing to do he is apt to go to work digging his grave.
Work is not the principal curse.
It is man's greatest blessing.

The peoples that do most of the world's work are the strongest, the longest lived and the happiest.
My friend who wants to retire at fifty has been a hard worker. If he quits his labors arbitrarily he is likely to die prematurely.

Remember what Robert Louis Stevenson, himself a worker to the last,
said about dying?
He said, in effect, that instead of dribbling away one's life one should go over the precipice of eternity in full stream like a roaring Niagara.

The Child's Hair.

Don't plait or curl a child's hair very tightly at night. Poor and scanty tresses may very often be traced to having the hair strained back too tightly at night. Better straight hair than curls and waves when young, bought at this price.

ALFRED MERRITT LEONIDAS MERRITT
THE MERRITT BROTHERS IN WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C.—The statements of Leonidas Merritt before the steel investigation committee, backed by the statements of his brother, Alfred Merritt, have attracted more attention than any incident in the entire proceedings to date. Hearty denials by both John D. Rockefeller and Rev.
F. T. Gates, his agent, were hastily called forth and the whole matter will be probably straightened out when the oil king and the reverend friend are called before the committee in the near future to give their side of the case.

Don't Forget to Exercise.

No man of affairs, however important or overdriven, can ever be too busy to take time for exercise, unless he wishes to apply for his long vacation a decade or two earlier than is necessary. The place where the num-my of the Egyptians should be carried round at regular intervals, with a reminder that he has been dead for ten thousand years, is not at fairs, but in our business offices, workshops, counting houses and studios. There is where men are really killing themselves, instead of in their sports, their luxuries, or even in their vices. Com-mercially, slave-driving your body and brain may sometimes be a necessity, but the unbiased biologist of the twentieth century is beginning to suspect that the praises of industry, like those of a shortfleece, are sung most loudly and insistently by those in church or state who hope to profit by it—in other words, Woods Hutchinson in "Exercise and Health."

Wane of the Self-Made Man.
A comparison of recent issues of "Who's Who in America," shows that as this goes on, the top rung of the ladder is more seldom occupied by the self-made man. The percentage of college graduates listed in "Who's Who in America" climbed from 55 per cent. in the 1903-05 volume to 58 per cent. in the 1910-11 volume. According to the 1911 statistics, the total number about whom educational facts are given, 71 per cent. have had college training; 58 per cent. are graduates of colleges or schools of college or university grades; 16 per cent.
ended their education with secondary schools, that is, high schools, academies, normals or seminaries; 9 per cent. received only a common school education; 2.5 per cent. were privately educated, but most important of all, as a contradiction of the critics, is the fact that only two tenths of one per cent. of all these men and women were self-taught.—The World's Work.

NEW KIND OF MATTRESS

Layers of Fibrous Material Held Together by Tapes.

A novelty in mattresses has been devised by a Michigan man. Instead of a padding filled with hair or some other material, this mattress consists of a number of layers of fibrous material bound together by tapes that cross it longitudinally and laterally. At the intersections of the tapes (forming squares through and across the former from slippage). When the whole is constructed a separate slip cover can be drawn over it and either made removable or fastened, as desired. The

CARING ENCLOSED IT ALL.
Inventor of this mattress claims that it is as soft and comfortable as anyone would want to sleep on and that it can be made so cheaply as to derive an advantage from that feature. Provided with the proper material for the body, a woman could easily make one of these mattresses herself.

An Electrical Necessity A Motor for Your Sewing Machine

If you could eliminate that tiresome drudgery of pedaling—wouldn't sewing be a pleasure instead of a task?
One of these motors attached to your sewing machine does all the work, giving any speed desired by a mere pressure of the foot on the treadle. Why not investigate this little motor, only costs half-cent an hour to operate, and will last a life-time.

HOW DEATH COAXED LITTLE COOING TOT

Paralytic Mother Sees Skeleton

Within Their Reach.

SIMPLE HOME TRAGEDY

Unable to Move, Woman is Forced to Sit in Helpless Agony and See
Her Little One Grieffully Eat
Deadly Strychnine Pills.

Philadelphia.—In the old days when men's hearts were hard there was a hellish rivalry in the invention of torture. Because the emperor must amuse the brutish populace, because the conqueror must gloat over the agonies of the subjugated, because men differed in politics or religion—because of these things men were led to wild beasts in the circus, men were burned at the stake, and the rack, the thumbcrew, the boot and the iron maiden were invented. But with all their ingeniousness these inventors of the means of inflicting torture fell short, far short, of what accident, or fate—call it what you will—achieved in a simple little home in this city recently. Of physical pain there was none, but monstrous was that refinement of poignant agony which comes with the breaking of a mother's heart as, helpless, she was forced to sit and see the skeleton fingers of grinning death beckon her prattling babe within their reach.

Eats Deadly Pills.

death gave her one of the pills, set the box on a table a few feet away and went out to resume her play.

The paralyzed mother sat in her helplessness and smiled and cooed to her prattling babe, of fifteen months as the little one cooed about the floor. The baby's head touched the hanging table cloth and with gleeful gurgle the child grasped the cloth and began to draw itself to its uncertain feet. Then the bright eyes espied the box and a dimpled hand reached for it.

"Baby! baby! Oh, my God, baby don't touch it!"

But the pills rattled in the box and with an exultant coo the little one settled back to the floor, baby like carrying its new toy to its moist mouth.

The frantic woman coaxed and pleaded and scolded; she used all the gentle persuasion of a mother's baby-talk to coax the child nearer. She commanded. She did everything an anxiety-torn woman could do to induce the baby to drop the box. But to the little one it was all part of a game.

Then the box came open and the deadly pills fell into the child's lap and upon the carpet. A pink little thumb and finger reached for one of the deadly sugar-coated pellets.

Chained to her chair, the mother sent forth shriek after shriek for human help and appeal after appeal to her God, while only three feet away death coaxed her darling nearer and nearer to its embrace.

The sugar tasted good and the baby smiled and cooed. Then it reached for another pill—and another.

Finally help came, but too late. The baby is dead and the doctors are trying to save the sanity of the paralyzed mother.

EVANSVILLE "Y" PLAYS MILTON COLLEGE TIE

Score 31 to 31 at End of Fast and Exciting Game—College Plays Good Ball.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Evansville, Dec. 14.—In an exciting and well played game last evening the Milton college basketball team held the Evansville "Y" to a tie of 31 to 31. The game was witnessed by a large and enthusiastic audience and the closeness of the contest throughout made it very interesting for the spectators. Both teams were in good form and played a fast and snappy game, going to it with a jump from start to finish. The score was tied at several points during the game and the play was very even. The line-ups were as follows:

Milton. Position. Evansville.

Hall. rf. Benson.

Ernest. lf. Gilles.

North. c. Shergar.

Dunn. rg. Leo.

Sorenson. ls. Tomlin.

Field goals: Evansville, Benson, 4; Tomlin, 4; Gilles, 1; Shergar, 1; Leo, 1; Milton: Hall, 5; North, 5; Ernest, 2.

HEART AND HOME TALKS BY BARBARA BOYD

The Christmas Pace.

MOST of us have struck the Christmas pace by this time. Even if we haven't yet, another week will probably see us put on the high gear. We may not intend to. We may think we have planned carefully, so that the usual strenuous gait will not be necessary. But despite intentions and plans, somehow or other it seems to get us.

What is the reason for it, and is there any way, even now, to slacken our speed?

Perhaps one cause lies in the contagious spirit of the times. Everybody else is living strenuously just now and rushing about frantically with their hands full of more duties or affairs than they can manage. And we begin to think of things which we didn't intend doing, but which we decide now we will do. And immediately we start in to rush hither and yon like the rest of the world.

It is all very well to catch the spirit of Christmas, if it so be we are not already overfacing with it, the spirit of kindness and good will and love and cheer; but it is not necessary to catch the spirit of frantic haste. The two really are at enmity. Hurry will wear us out, make us irritable, take the sweetness out of the season, and leave us wondering cynically if Christmas is worth while. So let us consider a bit before we throw in the high gear; or, if we are already going beyond speed laws, let us see if we cannot slacken.

It is an American trait to overdo. It is probably one of the consequences of the feverish pace at which we live. We are keyed up all the time, and so no matter what we do, we overdo. And in nothing do we overdo quite so much as in our Christmas keeping. It is an unusual festivity. Spirits run high. And before we know it, they run away with us. And we are plunged into almost an orgy of gift-giving, entertaining, perhaps even of dressing, that uses up more of our money, our time, and our strength than we can afford. The post-holiday season finds us with a depleted treasury, both financially and physically.

In there any way to avoid this condition? As has been said, we usually intend to avoid it, but we don't. We start out sanely. We even deliberately intend to be kind. But the time comes, when we throw ourselves and additions to the wind, and spirit with the rest. We usually begin it by adding a few more to our gift-list than we intended. These people had been in our mind, but we had hesitated not to put their names on our gift-list. But now we weakly succumb, and down they go. Then we decide to get for certain ones on the list, something better than we had intended. A fifty-cent gift seems so little, we'll make the limit one dollar. Or we substitute for our one-dollar articles those at two. And before we know it we are engulfed. Now how can we prevent this?

We can do it largely by sending cards to the many on our list to whom we usually send some trifling knick-knack. By this is not meant foolish, sentimental cards, but cards that really carry an inspiring Christmas message. Today, fortunately, these cards can be found; for this practice is growing, and cards of this character are in demand. This will eliminate much hurried, worried shopping, keep down the cost of Christmas giving, and no doubt be a relief as well to those who receive. For Christmas is getting to be such an exchange business that those who receive must give. And many a woman today murmurs a little prayer of thankfulness when she sees a pile of cards in her Christmas mail, instead of a lot of packages. The kindly thought is there just the same, but there is no sense of obligation.

By sticking resolutely to this program, we can slacken the Christmas pace, for it will cut out the necessity of getting a dozen or so trifling gifts which are often the very hardest to find.

Then if we will cast a critical eye over some of the other preparations here too we may be able to eliminate, without lessening any of real joy of the celebration. If we are really taxing our purse or our strength more than we should, let us, when doing up our packages, leave off some of the seals and layers of holly paper and yards of ribbon. We can do our packaging up more simply, and yet retain a Christmas flavor.

We can make the decorations of the home simpler or leave out a few of the extras of the dinner without appreciable difference in the effect. And we certainly will enjoy the season more if we have not overtaxed ourselves or over-spent. There is joy in doing all that is possible, but there is little joy when we over-do.

Barbara Boyd.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE custom of making out a Christmas list of articles, that would be acceptable to one's self as Christmas gifts, came up for discussion the other day.

The custom was promptly stigmatized as cold blooded and generally undesirable.

Do you think it is? Myself, I can't see it that way. If Christmas were a time when those whom the spirit moved, made gifts to those whom they most loved, a Christmas list of one's wants would not be the proper thing.

But since we all know that at Christmas time, certain persons are undoubtedly going to make us gifts of a certain monetary value, whether the spirit prompts or not, and that said persons are probably racking their brains as to what said gifts shall be, I can't see why a Christmas list isn't a very logical and kindly custom.

Indeed, I think the making of such a list is not only within the pale of good breeding, but even a positive duty.

Make your list long enough so that there will still be room for the element of surprise and uncertainty.

Try to think up plenty of needs which can be inexpensively filled.

Put the list in the hands of mother or someone else, who will be ready to show it to inquiring friends and relatives, and I think you will be doing a truly good deed.

In the first place, you will be helping some one to solve the nagging problem of what to give you.

In the second place you will be giving some one the opportunity of presenting you with something you really want. Now, don't you take double pleasure in giving any one a gift which you know will fill a niche of need? Very well. Remember then that other people are likely to feel the same way.

Not only do I think that everyone ought to make out such a list, but I further believe that everyone ought to consult such lists, or, when they are a sufficient quantity, to inquire of the beneficiary's next friends what his wants are.

Perhaps I ought to feel ashamed, but I never can feel the same gratitude for a gift which was evidently selected at random, that I do for one which has plainly been chosen after consultation.

Last year I received among my Christmas gifts, a little rubber face cloth bag. I had two of these already and I badly needed a soapbox. Both these facts my family knew, and would gladly have told the purchaser of that superfluous bag, if she had taken the trouble to ask. But she didn't. Am I rightfully grateful that I can't feel any warmth of gratitude for that totally superfluous article?

We are always saying that it is the thought, and not the monetary value, which makes a gift valuable.

Is it illogical then to consider the gift less desirable when the thought is quite left out?

We can all of us imagine a finer, more spontaneous, less cut-and-dried Christmas celebration, in which Christmas lists and consultations of them would be superfluous.

But remember, we are dealing with Christmas as it is, not as it ought to be.

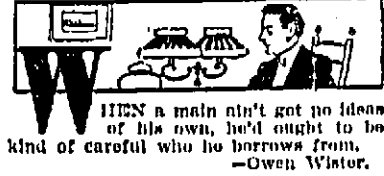

Different.

The domestic had said grace, when the four-year-old daughter of the hostess looked up and said: "That's not the kind of grace my papa says." "No," asked the minister, "what kind does he say?" "Why, last night he just said: 'Good Lord, what a supper!'"—Atlanta Constitution.

His New Schedule.

"Mister Wilkey," said the old Georgia darkey, "if you'll gimme a beaver, an' a long-tail coat, an' a stand-in collar, an' dem shoes what you use ter see de snakes in, I'll go preachin' or de Gospel, an' won't ask no more' favors or you 'twill nex time!"—Atlanta Constitution.

The KITCHEN CABINET

FANCY CAKES FOR FESTIVITIES.

Small cakes that will keep indefinitely are a desire that all who housewives desire to have on hand. The following has good keeping qualities:

Rocks.—Cream a cup of butter, add a cup and a half of sugar, three eggs, a teaspoonful of cinnamon, half a teaspoonful of allspice, a teaspoonful of soda dissolved in two tablespoonfuls of water, a pound each of walnuts and dates cut fine and two and a half cups of flour. Drop from a spoon on a buttered sheet.

Oatmeal Cookies.—Brown the oatmeal until a light color and put through the meat chopper. Take a cup of shortening, two cups of oatmeal, two cups of flour, a cup of sugar, a teaspoon of cinnamon and one of soda, two eggs and seven tablespoonfuls of sour milk. A few nuts and raisins may be put through the meat grinder with the oatmeal and added, if desired.

Rice Cookies.—Cream a half a cup of butter, add a third of a cup of sugar gradually, one egg well beaten, three-fourths of a cup of flour, a half teaspoon of vanilla. Beat well and drop from a spoon on a buttered sheet. Spread thinly with a knife dipped in cold water. Put four large rounds on each cookie. Blanch almonds or strips of citron cut in small pieces may be used.

Nut Cookies.—Beat the yolks of two eggs until thick, add a cup of brown sugar gradually, a cup of nut meats, then the whites of the eggs, and six tablespoonfuls of flour mixed with a few grains of salt. Drop from the tip of a spoon on a buttered sheet. Spread and bake in a moderate oven.

Cocoanut Cream Cookies.—Beat two eggs until light, add a cup of sugar gradually, a half cup of shredded cocoanut, a cup of cream and three cups of flour sifted with a teaspoonful of salt and three tablespoonfuls of baking powder. Chill and roll out one-half inch thick. Shape with a small round cutter and bake in a moderate oven.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

THE QUESTION OF ENDURANCE.

"The vegetable diet seems to be giving Warren Buffett a slight advantage over his brother, Jesse, who eats meat," in their hike across the continent," says a report from Kansas City on the walking contest under the direction of Prof. Barger of Harvard University. In all the contests held in Germany, England and America, non-flesh-eaters have shown greater endurance. While the exclusion of flesh from the diet does not give an ideal system and while meat may under some circumstances be beneficial, it is now well determined that greater endurance in physical work can be maintained without it, and it is reasonable to suppose that the same is true of mental endurance. All physicians now agree that too much meat is eaten, and as the industrial conditions clearly indicate that the American people must learn to do with less flesh food it is well that such demonstrations should be made. Many sanitariums exclude flesh from their bill of fare.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

STRANGE DYING REQUEST OF TWO KINGS.

By A. W. MACY.

Edward I, king of England, and Robert Bruce, king of Scotland, were deadly enemies, and faced each other on many a hard fought battlefield; and strangely enough each left a dying request that after death his heart should be removed from his body and buried in the Holy Land. But in neither case was the request carried out. Edward's son disobeyed his father's command, and buried his body in Westminster Abbey, the heart with it. Bruce's friend, Sir James Douglas, attempted to carry out his instructions. The heart was removed from the body, embalmed, and inclosed in a silver case. This Sir James slipped from his neck and started for the Holy Land. Unfortunately he stopped in Spain to assist in a war against the Moors, and was slain in battle. His body was found, the locket recovered, and the heart returned to Scotland and buried at Melrose Abbey. Had their instructions been carried out the hearts of these two inveterate enemies might possibly have reposed side by side in the same sepulchre.

Cat Adopted Woodchucks.

On the same day that a litter of kittens was dropped at the home of Frank Platts, near Inez, Pa., Mr. Platts's sons killed a woodchuck in the woods near the house and brought home from the animal's nest four young "chucks." These were offered to the mother cat, and to the surprise of the family she carried them to her bed and has since mothered them.

STUNNING BLACK COSTUME.

Our sketch shows a handsome black costume, with skirt of black velvet and smart, effective tunic formed of alternate bands of jet insertion and black lace, the latter over white satin. Girdle and sash ends were black satin, caught with a bunch of rhinestones, and the fashionable side-jacket was made of white tulle and real Valenciennes lace. A quilling of black satin finished the bottom of tunic.

To be worn with this gorgeous costume was a black velvet hat, adorned with a magnificent white ostrich plume.

AN ALARM AT NIGHT

That strikes terror to the entire household is the loud, hoarse and metallic cough of croup. No mistake in it, and fortunate then the lucky parents who keep Foley's Honey and Tar Compound on hand. H. W. Casselman, Canton, N. Y., says: "It is worth its weight in gold. Our little children are troubled with croup and hoarseness, and all we give them is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. I always have a bottle of it in the house. Badger Drug Co."

Thought for Today

MRS. ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE.

THE FLESH TENDENCY.

THE disposition to an excessive accumulation of flesh may be suddenly developed in the individual, but more often it is an inherited tendency. Some families, like some breeds of cattle, will not fatten, but remain lean and angular though living under conditions most favorable to flesh. Others are equally inclined to grow sleek and round even though not well fed. Margaret Deland says there are women who will grow fat on a straw a day.

Nevertheless the tendency to flesh appears to have its origin in high living and abundant food. A missionary from Micronesia told me that probably because of their spare and limited diet the natives of the islands were never burdened with superfluous flesh. I have read that obesity is almost unknown among modern Greeks and that the common people live on one meal a day.

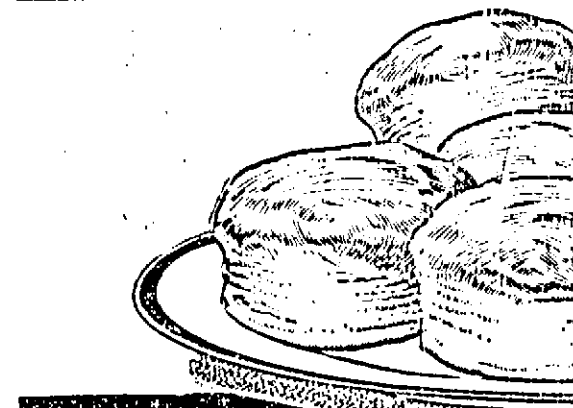

Fleshy people are often light eaters, great workers and of nervous temperament. The signs of the flesh are visited on the individual. As a people we undoubtedly owe too much in proportion to our exercise. An increasing tendency to excessive flesh is the consequence. How strong and unyielding this tendency is only those who have struggled against it realize. We read so much about reducing the flesh nowadays—athletes, actresses and other professional people—that the impression is prevalent, among thin people anyway, that it is only a matter of little effort and small self-denial, whether one is stout or thin.

The idea that it may be as easy for those who are thin to get fatter as for those who are stout to get thinner is ridiculous. But Nansen grew so fat the while he lived on bear oil and slept twenty out of twenty-four hours, that though constitutionally slender, he lost all use of himself and would have been unable to make the necessary exertion to save his life if he had not been rescued.

A NEW HIGH CROWNED HAT.

Early in the season, high crowns were predicted, and later developments have proven the prediction. A rather small hat, of this character, with high bell crown, is shown in the illustration. It is a handsome affair, of black velvet, bound about the edge of the brim, base and top of crown with black folds of black velvet de sole. The very large hats that have been so popular the last two seasons, right, and rolls gracefully upward.

Recipe for Calumet Biscuit

- 1 Cup sifted flour.
- 1 Teaspoonful Calumet Baking Powder.
- 1 Level teaspoon of salt.
- 2 Rounding tablespoonfuls butter or lard.
- 1 Cup of milk.
- 1 Cup of water.

Sift flour once, then measure, add salt and baking powder and sift three times, rub shortening in with fork or spoon, add milk and water, turn out on a well floured board and roll one inch thick, cut and bake in a quick oven about twelve to fifteen minutes.

To be worn with this gorgeous costume was a black velvet hat, adorned with a magnificent white ostrich plume.

with a becoming flare. At this side back are three full bread ostrich tips, in white, affording the one touch of luxurious trimming. These are the fashionable French heads, which are far more modish than the once widely prevalent willow plumes.

The woman who wears a black hat well and delights in graceful simplicity, will find good suggestions in this charming model.

The Quickest Cough Cure—Cheap, But Unequaled

A Whole Pint of It for 50c. Saves You $2. Does the Work Quickly or Money Refunded.

For quick and positive results, the pint of cough syrup that you make with a 50-cent bottle of Pinex cannot be equalled. It takes hold instantly and will usually stop the most obstinate deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. Even croup and whooping cough yield to it quickly.

The user of Pinex mixes it with homemade sugar syrup. This gives you a full pint—a family supply—of better cough remedy than you could buy like it. Excellent for hoarseness, asthma, bronchitis, and other throat troubles, and has a wonderful record in cases of incipient lung trouble.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of Norway White Pine extract, rich in quinine and other natural healing plant elements. Simply mix with sugar syrup or strained honey, in a pint bottle, and it is ready for use. Used in more homes in the U. S. and Canada than any other cough remedy.

Pinex has often been imitated, but never successfully, for nothing else will produce the same results. The genuine is guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. Certificates of guarantee are wrapped in each package. Your druggist has Pinex or will gladly get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Feet Tired—So Tired?

TIZ Makes Feet Well No Matter What Ails Them.

TIZ acts at once and makes tired, aching, swollen feet remarkably fresh and sore proof.

It's the sure remedy, you know, for everything that ails the matter with your feet. It's for sore feet and for swollen, hot, burning feet, and for corns, callouses and bunions, too.

"For years I have been troubled with sore and tender feet; suffered intense pain, have had the assistance of physicians without relief. I bought a box of TIZ, which worked a perfect cure, as it has with a great many of my friends. I would not be without it. All it requires is to be known to be universally used."—A. F. Drexler, Chicago.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous excretions which bring on all sorts of eruptions of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet. You'll never have a corn or draw up your face in pain, and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and callouses. You'll feel like a new person.

TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or it will be sent you direct, if you wish, from Walter Lather Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

CAUSES MUCH DISEASE

Advice About Stomach Troubles and How to Relieve Them.

Do not neglect indigestion which may lead to all sorts of ills and complications. An eminent physician once said that ninety-five per cent of all the ills of the human body have their origin in a disordered stomach. Our experience with Beecham's Tablets leads us to believe that to be among the most dependable remedies known for the relief of indigestion and chronic dyspepsia. Their ingredients are soothing and healing to the inflamed membranes of the stomach. They are rich in pepsin, one of the greatest digestive aids known to medicine. The relief they afford is very prompt. Their use with persistance tends to bring about a cessation of the pain caused by stomach disorders.

Beecham's Tablets help to insure healthy appetite, to aid digestion, and thus promote nutrition. As evidence of our sincere faith in Beecham's Tablets, we ask you to try them at our risk. If they do not give you entire satisfaction, we will return you the money you paid us for them, without question or formality. They come in three sizes, prices 25 cents, 50 cents, and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain them only at our store—The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co., 14 West Milwaukee st., Janesville, Wis.

Railroad Man Writes

Remarkable Letter.

In 1903 and 1904, I was a terrible sufferer for about five months with kidney and bladder trouble. I could not sleep nights. One doctor said I was doing into consumption and gave me up to die. Had two other doctors but received no help from either of them and am sure I would have been in my grave had I not seen your advertisement in the "Marquette Daily Eagle Star." After taking several bottles of Dr. Kilmor's Swamp-Root I was entirely cured.

In the last two years I have been a railroad fireman and have passed two examinations for my kidneys successfully so that I know that my kidneys are in excellent condition now as a result of your great preparation.

Yours very truly,
GEORGE KILMOR,
1895 13th Ave. No.,
Minneapolis, Minn.

Personally appeared before me this 25th of September, 1909, George Kilmor, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do For You.

Send to Dr. Kilmor & Co., Hingham, N. Y., for a sample bottle. It will convince anyone. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information, telling all about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention the Janesville Daily Gazette, regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

The KINGDOM of SLENDER SWORDS

by HALLIE ERMINIE RIVES

Copyright, 1910, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company

He put out his hand to one of the benches in the deep pine shadow, but drew it back with a sharp breath. A silver of the warped wood had pierced his knuckle to the bone.

Frowning, he wrapped the bleeding member in his handkerchief and sat down at the bench's other end bitterly absorbed. How long he sat there with bowed head he could not have told, but at length he rose heavily to his feet. As he did so he became aware of a sound below him—a footfall coming toward him. It crossed a bar of the moonlight.

He shrank, and a tremor ran over him, for it was Barbara.

She had thrown over her a loose cloak, and a bit of soft, clinging lace showed between its dark edges. Her brilliant hair was loosely gathered in a single braid, and in the moonlight it shone like beaten copper against the vivid pallor of her face. He sat still, less, emotion with confusion, conscious that a movement must betray him. A painful embarrassment enveloped him, a fastidious sense of shrinking from her sight of him. He felt a dull wave of resentment that an idle irony of circumstance should have brought them beneath the same roof, to make him seem the moody pursuer, the unwelcome trespasser on her reserve, and that now thrust him into a position which at any hazard he would have shunned. But all thought of himself, all feeling save one, vanished when, with sudden piteous abandon, she threw herself on her knees by the bench and broke into slow sobs, shuddering and tearful.

In that outbreak of emotion were not alone the pent up pain and humiliation she had suffered or the desperate joy of that evening's knowledge. There were in it, too, grief and compunction, dismay and doubt of the future. She was engaged to Austin Ware. Would Daunt ever forgive? Would he want her now? In the first realization of her error, wound with the knowledge that he was so near her, who had felt only joy, but in the silence of her room shock on shock had come the ferocious question, the burning revelation. Awful she had lain wide-eyed, but at length, sleepless, she had stolen out to the balcony, fragrant night, craving its peace, longing passionately for its soft shadows and the hovering touch of the mountain's breath on her hair. And in its friendly shadows the gust of feeling had swept her from her feet.

The action took Daunt wholly by surprise. The sound tore his heart like a ruthless talon and drew a hoarse word from his lips:

"Barbara!" It was little more than a whisper, but she sprang erect with a gasp, her breath labored and terror-stricken.

"I beg pardon," he said, with a dry catch in his throat. "Don't be frightened. I will go at once. I should not have stayed. But you came so suddenly, and I did not dream—"

"How strange that you should have been here!" She thought he must hear the loud drumming of her pulse. He laughed, a hard, colorless little laugh. "Yes," he answered, "it seems so."

"A mist blinded her eyes, for his tone carried to her even more sharply than had the look she had seen from the balcony a sense of the pain he had undergone. In what words could she tell him?

"You have been suffering," she said in a low voice. "I see that. And it was my fault."

He gathered himself together with an effort of will to still the tingle that flashed along his nerves. "It was quite sane and right, no doubt," he said. "When I have learned to be honest enough with myself I shall see it so. My mistake was in over-dreaming that I was worth one of your thoughts or a single second's memory."

She turned her head abruptly. "Do you hear some one talking? I thought I heard it as I came up the path, like some one muttering to himself."

He listened, but there was no sound. "I must have imagined it," she said. There was a moment's pause, and presently she went on:

"You have been thinking hard things of me. It is natural that you should. And yet I, whatever you think, whatever you do, that day in the cave I was not—was not?"

"You were nothing you should not have been," he replied rapidly. Her voice had sent a tremor over him. He felt it with a new wave of the morning's contempt. "I understand. There is nothing for you to justify, nothing to regret."

She shook her head. "We have left undone those things which we ought to have done," she quoted in a low voice, "and have done those things which we ought not to have done, and there is no health in us." We all realize that every Sunday. I have something now to confess to you. Won't you stand there in the light? I—I want to see your face."

He stepped slowly into a bar of moonlight.

"Why," she said, "you have hurt your hand?" She made a quick step toward him, her eyes on the stained bandage.

"It is nothing," he said hastily. "I struck it a little while ago. What?" He turned, suddenly alert. A sharp whistle had sounded below them and bright points here and there pricked the gloom. "They have turned on the tree lights," he said. There was a sound of voices on the path. Some one ran across the footbridge.

"Something has happened," she said. "What can it be?"

He made no reply. There had flashed to him a quick realization of the position in which unwittingly they had placed themselves. She must not be seen at such an hour in that lonely spot with him. He knew the canon of the world he lived in. With a hushed word he drew her back into the shadow.

The voices were speaking in Japanese, and now he heard them clearly. "Some one is injured," he told her. "He fell down the hillside, they think." A hurried step crossed the bridge and a voice, sharp and peremptory, asked a question in nervous English. Daunt chilled at the answer, turning to her, every unselfish instinct alive to spare her.

But she had heard a name. "It is Mr. Ware who is hurt!"

He grasped her wrist. "Wait!" he said hurriedly. "I beg you to go by the upper path to the side door." But she caught away her arm and ran quickly down the path.

Daunt sprang up the hill, skirted the building, gained its upper corridor, now shimmering with excitement, and crossed the bridge. Near its farther end a small group stood about a figure, prostrate beside the phonograph whose cylinder gleamed in the lantern light. By it Barbara was kneeling.

But something came between her gaze and the pallid face—something which she saw with the distinctness of a black paper silhouette on a white ground—a glimmering object, unnoted by the rest, which had lain half concealed by a bush—something that one day a thousand years ago had glittered against Daunt's brown hair as he saluted her from his horse. It was a riding crop whose Damascus handle bore the device of a fox's head.

Two hours later the corridors were silent, and the bishop and Daunt sat together in the darkest office saying few words, both thinking of a man lying straight and alone, and of a girl in an upper room whose promise he had taken with him out of the world. Daunt was to leave for Tokyo on the early morning train. Half the night through he sat there listening to the moan of the rising weather.

But a little while before the sky whitened to a rainy dawn a gray wrath gilded along the upper blizzen of the hotel. It crossed the footbridge to the hillside.

Barbara groped and found the crop. Across the night she seemed to see an endless procession of stolid, sulphur-colored figures linked with thin, rattling chains filling into the humid, black mouth of a mine. Shuddering, she swung the stick with all her strength and threw it from her down the steep into the water that roared and tumbled far below.

CHAPTER XXIV.

THE LAYING OF THE MINE.

DAUNT BERNONIN lunched at the Tokyo club. The upstairs dining room was full of talk as the export arrived and chose a small table by himself.

While he waited the boy brought him one of the English printed newspapers, and he cast his eyes over the headlines. He read:

SQUADRON'S SAILING ORDERS.

To Leave Tomorrow Morning—An Answer to the Admirals.

All Differences Between the Two Governments to Yield to Diplomacy.

On the other side was the caption in smaller type:

BEAR LAID ON MARKET.

Mysterious Selling Movement Causes Uneasiness.

He read the latter dispatch, an Associated Press wire, under a New York date line:

At noon today the bear movement, heretofore regarded as a natural reaction following an over-advance and hence of purely academic interest, suddenly assumed such proportions as to make the outlook one of anxiety. It seems significant that before the Wall street opening this morning the London market responded to an attack of the same nature. In an era of industrial prosperity and general peace such a phenomenon is alarming, and a serious decline is anticipated in some quarters. The short sales which were such a factor in today's market were so distributed that it seems impossible to trace them to any single interest.

Bernonin's face expressed nothing. He told the crackling sheet and laid it to one side.

Most of the comment about him turned on the departure of the squadron. Since the royal death, whose announcement had so abruptly ended the festivities, the black battleships had lain motionless in the bay. The appointment of a regent of confessedly more positive policy had given rise to many speculations, and the apostle of calmness had seized the opportunity to sow the seeds of disquiet. The great world, however, had as yet given little thought to their prognostications. The houses had gone higher and higher. Only in diplomatic circles, where the mercury is habitually unquiet, had there been perceptible effect. Today the comment showed a sublimed relief.

The doctor ate little. He left the petit verre with his coffee untouched, signed his shirt and went down to his automobile.

"Bernonin must be under the weather," one of the men at another table observed as he passed them. "He looks like a putty image."

"Curious chap," remarked the other. "Got a lot in his head no doubt. Some queer stories about him, but I don't suppose there's anything in them."

The other lit his cigar reflectively. "I can't somehow go him myself," he said.

Bernonin was whisked to his house and presently was in his laboratory with its glass shelves, its books and its wall safe. A cheerful fire burned in the grate against the dampness.

He began to walk restlessly up and down the floor. Today his government contract expired and Japan had not asked its renewal. He thought of this with a sudden recrudescence of the hatred he had nurtured for the empire. This had been based on fanatic slights, on his failure to receive a decoration, on the surveillance he had lately imagined had been kept on his movements. Well, tomorrow would repay all with interest. There was no hitch in the plan which chance had aided so well. The float was the one house on the Yokohama bluff that could have served his purpose, planted on the cliff edge and in line with the anchorage. And it had happened to be in the hands of this weak fool for his cat's paw.

His great, cunning brain turned to the future—to that vast career which his stupendous egotism had painted for himself. His discovery was so epoch making, so terrifying in its possibilities to civilization, that it had nonplussed him. It was too big to handle. He had made the greatest dynamite engine the world had seen—possibly the greatest it would ever see—and yet he knew that the ambassador had laid his finger on the truth when he had said: "Humanity would revolt. The man who knew the secret would be too dangerous to be at large."

But with wealth—wealth enough to buy men and privilege—what might he not do? It would take time and scheming and secrecy, but he had them all. And the great secret was always his, and his alone. It would make him more powerful than emperors, for he who possessed it, with the means to use it, could laugh at fleets and fortifications. Before the machines that he should build the greatest steel clad that was ever floated would vanish like smoke. He clutched his great hands, and his massive frame quivered.

"The future, the future!" he said in a low, tense voice. "I shall be greater than Caesar, greater than Napoleon, for I shall hold the force that can make and unmake kings. So surely as force rules the world, so surely shall I, Bernonin, rule the world!"

A knock came at the door, and Phil entered. He was as pale as the doctor, and his clothing was soaked with the rain. Without a word Bernonin locked the door, wheeled an armchair before the blaze, pushed him into it and mixed him a glass of spirits. Then he stood looking at him.

"It's all right," said Phil. "The trip added to a hair. It can't be seen from either side, and I've sent the boy away and locked the house."

"Good," said Bernonin. "All is ready, then. The mechanism is not for the moment of daybreak. Our gains will be enormous, for in spite of the selling the market is up. There has been a little distrust of the situation here and there, though the optimists have had their way. And this latent distrust will add to the debacle when it comes. We are just in time, for the squadron has its sailing orders for tomorrow. Strange how near we were to failure! Who could have foreseen the death of the king? And the rains too. They say it is doubtful if the rains will run tomorrow."

Phil's hand, holding the drink, shook and wavered.

Shocked the Clergyman.
A Maine clergyman, visiting at the hotel in his town, at a typewriter and had it sent to his room. It came when the clergyman was out, and the proprietor took charge of it. When the minister returned the proprietor led him behind the desk and whispered: "That case of yours is on the lee, parson, I guess it will be all right by dinner time."

Origin of Term "Yankee."
"Yankee" is from endeavor of Indians to pronounce the word "English," which they rendered "Yong-loos."

STOMACH TROUBLES

Cured By Vinol—Here is Proof

Seymour, Ind.—"I was troubled with a chronic stomach trouble, and five weeks ago it got so bad I had to give up work. I had tried various remedies without relief, and was finally induced to try Vinol. After taking the first bottle I was greatly benefited. Am now on the third bottle and ready to resume work. Am rapidly gaining in weight and strength." Edw. Noman.

It is the curative medicinal elements of the code's liver, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion and at the same time it builds up the tired, overworked and run-down system.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. SMITH DRUG CO., Janesville, Wis.

CONDITIONS GOVERNING FINAL COUNT OF CAMPAIGN EXPLAINED

FOUR JUDGES PICKED BY CANDIDATES TO ASSIST JANESVILLE BANKERS IN FINAL COUNT.

FINAL COUNT TO BE MADE IN FULL VIEW OF EVERYONE

Eight Days of Good Hustle Will Win One of These Valuable Prizes.

The prize campaign has now come to a question of days, and from last evening only 9 days remain.

The great, good-natured battle of votes, which has extended over the past six weeks, has wrought up more interest than any other contest in mercantile or journalistic circles ever inaugurated in this part of the country. The campaign is now at the seventh week—one more remains—but the tug of war is yet to come. The right of those promised subscriptions. Don't let them get away. The elegant Overland Touring Car may be won in your district by the margin of votes given on a new 12 month subscription. Don't wait for another candidate to go in ahead of you.

All subscriptions can now be turned into this office, and ballots will be issued on the same. These ballots can be held in reserve to vote at any time you desire.

Important Questions Answered.

So many inquiries have come to this office pertaining to the final count as to who will conduct it, etc., that we submit the following conditions under which the same will be carried out.

On Saturday morning, December 16, at 9 o'clock, the votes will be counted for the last time until Saturday night, December 23.

Directly after the votes are counted Saturday the ballot box will be locked and sealed and the key to the same sent in an envelope and delivered to the Rock County Bank for safe keeping until Saturday night, December 23, when it will be delivered to the judges who will open the box at 8 p. m. and begin the final count.

The Gazette requests that each candidate be represented at this final count by a gentleman friend, to assist in selecting the judges.

The friends of the candidates are also cordially invited to be present to witness the final count.

As soon after 8 o'clock as the tally clerk can be selected the counting of the votes will begin and the decision will be made at the earliest possible moment.

Announcement on the place of holding the final count will be made as soon as all the arrangements are complete.

The count will be conducted in full view of everyone and will be carried on fairly and squarely and to the personal satisfaction of all. There has not been nor will there be a vote issued but what is bona fide.

It can not be said too emphatically that candidates who are desirous of winning one of the prizes should use their greatest efforts during the remaining days of the campaign.

About Second Payments.

One point that the management feels should be made clear to all candidates is the manner of paying votes upon second payments to The Gazette by one person and candidates are requested to note carefully the following: For example, when a person has paid for one yearly subscription to The Gazette during the campaign and decides to subscribe for another year, the votes issued upon the payment of the second subscription will amount to the difference between the number of votes given at the time of the first payment and the total amount which would have been given had the subscriber been in the beginning.

For instance: If a man subscribed for the paper one year under the first scale of votes, votes would have been issued upon the payment of that subscription to the amount of 6,000 now, by mail. Should he decide to take out another year's subscription at this time votes would be issued to the amount of the difference between the 6,000 to which he was entitled upon the first payment, and the amount to which he would be entitled by the payment of a two-year's subscription at that time—18,000, or 12,000 votes. Then using a coupon which will make this payment total 24,000 votes.

Always give the date of the first payment when handling in a second payment, as that governs the amount of votes due. The scale in force when the first payment was turned in governs the scale used on the second payment.

When a candidate's second payment is sent to mark on stub, second payment and the number of votes received on the first payment.

Candidates will do well at this time to induce subscribers who have purchased a subscription for one year earlier in the campaign to subscribe for a second year, thereby securing the same number of votes that would have been secured had the subscription been for two years the first time it was turned in.

You will, mail or carrier boy receive the difference of votes on old subscriptions as well as new, under this same process. The coupon may also be used on second payments turned in now as well as first payments turned in now.

Women Sharp Shooters.

Woman who have recently joined the Wandsworth (England) Rifle club have proved so expert in the use of the rifle that scores of 35 out of a "highest possible" of 40 have frequently been recorded. The club committee is desirous of securing other women sharpshooters in order to arrange a match between the women and men.

Sherman's Phrase.

Under the Sherman table in the hall of fame appear these words: "War is cruel and you cannot refine it." THEATER

SEEING BY HEARING.

To see a blind man enjoying himself at Lyman H. Howes' Travel Festival as thoroughly as anyone gifted with perfect sight seems inexplicable. Nevertheless, the manager of Mr. Howes' production, which comes to the Myers Theater, Dec. 29 and 30, explains that a man who is totally blind attends Mr. Howes' attraction on every visit to blind man derived his pleasure from "seeing" each picture as interpreted by the music accompanying it. What pleased him so well was not only the still and art of the pianist but also because the music was so appropriate that it clearly suggested to the blind man what scenes were being portrayed, and his native intelligence did the rest.

one of the largest cities in Massachusetts. Regardless of blizzards, rain, storms or the most unpleasant weather, he has not missed a single visit of Lyman H. Howes' attraction to his city for the last ten years. He is always one of the earliest arrivals and invariably occupies the same seat. He finally aroused the manager's curiosity to such an extent that the latter sought an introduction and asked him what features of the program he found most interesting. The blind man said, "All of them" and then explained how and why he was so well entertained. He was a musician and as Mr. Howes' pianist displays such admirable judgment and taste in selecting and adapting music to exactly suit every scene and incident, the

THE FLIRTING PRINCESS.

Tom Powers, the famous cartoonist of the Hearst syndicate of newspapers, must have been inspired when he gave the world his "Joy and Glee." These funny little creations of cartoon have become so popular this season, Harry Harker, who is under the management of Mort H. Singer, playing "The Flirting Princess" has instituted a dance in the play based upon the cartoons and called "The Gloomy Gloom."

Harry Harker, in the "Flirting Princess" will be seen at Myers Theater Wednesday, Dec. 29 under the auspices of the Elks.

Fame of Li Hung Chang.

There are far too many famous men nowadays, and it is not easy to remember exactly who is who. They were discussing the Chinese situation in the bar and the man who had visited China began to give his views. "Do you remember Li Hung Chang?" he began. "I knew him well." To which the sporting-looking gentleman in the corner answered, "What? Remember him? I saw him last night. Best music hall juggler I've seen for a long time."—London Chronicle.

"BEST ON EARTH"

This is the verdict of R. J. Howell, Tracy, O., who bought Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for his wife. "Her case was the worst I have ever seen, and looked like a sure case of consumption. Her lungs were sore and she coughed almost incessantly and her voice was hoarse and weak. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound brought relief at once and less than three bottles affected a complete cure." Without opiates or harmful drugs of any kind Foley's Honey and Tar Compound stops coughs and cures colic. Do not accept any substitute. Badger Drug Co.
